

Judge Timothy A. Bradshaw

Judge Bradshaw was first elected in 2008 to King County Superior Court, Dept. 1. He was inducted by U.S. District Court Judge Richard A. Jones. Judge Bradshaw has since focused on civil litigation, criminal trials, and the Unified Family Court. Additionally, Judge Bradshaw has served on the Jury, Security, Court's & Community, and Personnel Committees, and on the Inquiry Judge Panel; is an annual volunteer judge to the YMCA Moot Court competition; and is a current Judicial College faculty member. A frequent speaker on trial practice, Judge Bradshaw has served as a faculty member on the Civil Court Judicial Forum, Superior Court Boot Camp, and Family Law Forum.

Judge Bradshaw came to the bench as a noted trial attorney in the King County Prosecuting Attorney's Office, a tenure that included litigating one-hundred twenty-five jury trials to verdict. A founding member of the homicide and cold case unit, he pioneered multiple forensic efforts, including the first DNA (human and animal) cases in county history. In recognition of these achievements, Judge Bradshaw was awarded the Norm Maleng Outstanding Trial Advocacy Award. He earned his bachelor's degree at the University of Puget Sound and his juris doctor degree from the Seattle University School of Law (originally University of Puget Sound) where he was Class Speaker.

"All I can hope to teach one's child is to tell the truth and fear no man. The only thing that counts is the right to know, to speak, to think – that, and the sanctity of the courts. Otherwise it's not America." — Edward R. Murrow
